Augmentity Awarded Sun Software Elite Certification

ATLANTA, GA. – Sept 21, 2008 – Augmentity, a leading provider of enterprise computer hardware and storage solutions, today announced it received Sun Software Elite certification. The certification represents the highest level of software knowledge and partnership offered by Sun.

"Augmentity has achieved great success with developing solutions for our customers, utilizing the Sun product portfolio. We have built a tremendous team and it is great to see the recognition of the effort," commented Travis Gonzales, vice president of South East sales at Augmentity.

The Sun Partner Advantage Software Elite program represents select partners with the ability to architect, and deploy best-in-class Sun software solutions that meet customers' strategic business and technology needs. The Software Elite status demonstrates considerable training and practical application of software solutions for identity management, role based security and policy compliance.
